CUTTING DOWN THE ESTIMATES -According to a Washington correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser, the President has taken a very active and important part in the work of arranging the estimates lor the ensuing fiscal year, preparatory to laying them tefore Congress, and he has insisted on general, earching, and inexorable retrenchment, sending tack the estimates of one department no cas than three successive times, with peremptory orders to cut them down. This work is met at every step by the determined efforts of placemen and others to prevent the abolition of swarms of offices and long lists of items, and it is a matter of no small difficulty to resist their importunities, but the President has succeeded

The reduction of the army and navy was home. So it is easy to get the neeless ships and naterials of war sold, because there is no special influence at work to interfere with the movepents. But the dismissal of officers, navai, military, and civil, the cutting off allowances. and the wiping out of special branches ol serrice no longer needed, these are different matrs, requiring firmness and determined will on the part of the President. It has been the anxious desire of President Johnson to have his stimates of expenditure all reduced to a peace bash, and to this end he has cultivated a good celling with the late rebellions States, and has refrained from a warlike policy toward

White claims $5,000 damages, and Macklin $10,000. We also learn that Joseph Kennedy has brought suit against Thomas Dempsey and William H. Glorc, who acted as Judges of Election in the Drover's Inn precluct in Angust last, for refusing to allow him to rote. Pryor & Chambers and James O'Hard have been employed as council for the plaintiffs n the two former cases, and John W. Stevenson for Kennedy.

"WHIPPED AND CLEARED."-William John on, soldier in the regular army, who was indicted for grand larceny in stealing a quantity of neckties from the store of Mr. Charles Theise. on Yerk street, Newport, some time ago, was tried in the Circuit Court on Saturday, and conicted of petit larceny. He was sentenced to ceive twenty stripes on the bare back, which nediately executed by the sheriff inside the jail, and the culprit set at liberty. He took his whipping without flinching, and departed with a smiling face. It is said that while in jail he robbed his fellow prisoners of all they had, and, during the progress of the trial, he stole the tobacco of his counsel. Mr. Hallam, who was making an earnest defence for him without fee, under the appointment of the Court.

eem stated that Mayor McCracken had made arrangements with Engineer McGrew, of the cinnati Fire Department, to fill the public cisterns of Newport with one of the steam fire engines of the former city. The job was performed on Saturday. The engine was stationed at the river, near the ferry landing, and forced water through four thousand feet of hose to a cistern near the head of York street, a point fully one hundred feet higher than that where the engine stood. After all the public cisterns which required it were filled, the engine company filled a large number of private cisterns, charging the owners five dollars each.

Judge Milton Brown, President of the lobile and Ohio Rallroad, made a speech the other day before the Mobile Chamber of Com erce, in which he denounced citizens of Memphis, who owned the Memphis and Charleston oac, with having combined with the military and the cotton thieves to defrand the Government. The Memphis Bulletin is very indignant at the charge, and dares the Judge to attempt be proof of it. There is a severe conflict of interest between Memphis and Mobile in refer-ence to railroad affairs, but it will probably realt to the advartage of both cities in stimnlating railway enterprise.

I was still the stead, fast filend of the Union. Opposed to secession, confronting its leaders, I spipealed to the people to wait, to try the new Administration, to respect the flag of the country. I lasisted that every interest of the South would be safer with in the Union than out of it. My counsel was to make the great stinggle for the rights of the South within the Union Not notif the dread drama of war opened did I take part in any act of hostility to the Government of the United States. Thousands who, like myself, were opposed to the wild measures that were precipitating the country into the vortex of revolution, when they saw the purpose of the Administration clearly defined, and beheld the spectacle, for the General Government arming itself to ceree States into obedience to its anthority, look their places under the new flag that was floading ever the ranks of their kinsmen. They believed that a great battle for constitutional liberty was impending, and they could not resist the imperious sense of duty, and the generous souliment which impelled them to share the fortunes of the States of their

The Administration of President Johnson, by a policy as wise as it is magnanimons, is rapidly restoring fraternal relations between those who were lately engaged in deadly strife. His Administration is characterized by a spirit so enlightened, so comprehensive, so notional, and so beneficent, that the people of the Sonth, with ore common sentiment of trust and loyalty, are prepared to give it their hearty support. They have already recovered their ancient confidence and sense of security in their Government. The President, by a wise statesmanship, is obliterating the traces of war. The military force is disappearing before the advance of the civil anthority. This pacific policy is working admirably; and while its author, with a steady hand, is cuiding author, with a steady hand, is guiding are to come, he is achieving a nobie fame by wherirg to a system of restoration eminently wite. Ifirmly believe that, in the course of ten years, the South will exhibit a greater prosperity and a higher civilization than at any previous period of its history. There will be a greater number of will-conducted farms. Irstead of the constant train upon the masele of labor to produce the vigest possible quantity of cotton, rice, sugar, and tobacco for the accumulation of immense rinnes, there will be a diversified industry, Tusing increased comforts among a greater more of human beings. There will be fewer autocrate, but more happy families. Something like the I said to a friend seated by me recently at a fathe in Willard's Hotel. He is one of our weathlets and beat men. He could not agree with me, sud assured me that it would require five hundred thousand dollars to make good his losses by the results of the war.

But you observe that my friend's standpoint was the door of the handsome mansion that everlocks his own broad fields of labor and thrift. He had lost half a million—but the State has not lost that million—but the state has not lost it. The blacks no longer hor for him, but ther will henceforth be producers for themselves. The Commonwealth will not be impoverished by the new conditions of the parties. All belong for the State, whatf the parties. All belong to the State, what wer may be their relations to each other. The Tribune's special save: During the month of November there were 229 money requisitions entered in the office of the 4th Auditor, amonating, in the aggregate, to $43,989,512. The amount of the refunding requisitions was $1.276,940. The amount of cash disbursements in the accounts settled during the same month, the duc sions of navy agents, paymasters, pensions, marine, prize, and Generals, was $4,630,063.

The number of prize cases reported amounted to $202,006. There was paid over to the office of internal Revenue $101,247, an increase of $59,945 over that returned during the month of October last.

Several hundred thousand bonds of the Kansas branch of the Pacific railroad were presented at the Treasury Department to-day, the holders claiming that they are entitled to the Government bonds to be issued on the second forty miles of that road. This will stop the further issue of bonds by the Government until this complication with that branch is adjusted. In the case of a Colonel commanding a brigade during Sherman's march, to be appointed Brigadier-General, Dec. 6, 1862, but whose commission as such did not reach him nutil May 18, 1865, the Comprivollar has decleded that, notwith-shanding the enstom heretofore has been to pay efficers only from the date of the acceptance of their commissions, in cases similar to the one quoted full pay from the date of the commission will be allowed.

It will be seen that this plan avoids the infliction of chastisement by the employer, yet has proved effectual in preventing vagabondage and pauperism among the race, who, if left to themselves, will not voluntarily labor—a fact conceded by every one who is guided by observation and common sense, and not by "higher laws" and "inner lights." The plan Is as follows: Every freedman dependent upon his daily

It prevents pauperism by the State keeping reserve fund out of the freedmen's wages for limes of sickness and old age. Frenchmen who have tried the system assured Colonel Roman that it had proved equally effective and far more grecable than slavery. The above sketch

Whether this or any other effectual system will exempt he from that pestilent, intermedialing philanthropy which, however excellent in spirit, has proved so destructive to white and lack in practice, is problematical. I have my don'ts if even Louis Napoleon's or French philanthropy and humanitarianism will prove acceptable to the spotiess descendants of the Plymouth Rock Pilgrim Fathers, whose garmenfs are so clean that they uver require inspection, and, as a natural sequence, they are always searching for spots on their neighbors' coats. It is true the above system is different from and inferior to slavery in this respect—that it dees not provide for the increase of the colored race. That property in the negro whileh made the planter so carefully nurture the children up a his plantation is gone with the lustitution of slavery. Already the have among the colored innocents has been fearful—more so than the terrible destruction to the older negrees, which have been frightful enough to have satisfied the vengeance of their worst each

The first contest last night was a game of 590 obints carom, on a four, pocket table, between four Deery, the champion of the United States, and Mr. McDevitt. The game was a fine disalsy upon the part of McDevitt, but Deery failed ogive a good exhibition of his prowess. McDevitt went out when his opponent had scored out 283, making an average of 22, and 16 over. The winner's highest run was 144, obtained rincipally by delicate nursing. Deery's best nn was 96, terminated by an unfortunate oocket. pocket.
The next game was 150 points np, push-shot barred, between Mesers. Carme and Pheian. Phelan won by 103 points, Carme having no success in connting. Phelan in this game made a ran of 74. Michael Geery, of Washington, and Mr. Cahill, were the next to measure cnes in a gome of 260 points, which was won by the Washingtonian by 30 points.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1965 THE MESSAGE.-This document, if we mistake not, will take rank among the first State popers of this country. A second or third peusal of it must tend to enhance it in the estimation of a'l impartial readers. It grapples with the mighty subjects which it covers with the hand of a giant. One hardly knows whether to admire more, the strength and clearness which it displace in the discussion of these subjects or the subdued mildness and humanity which it everywhere breathes. There are clearly perceptible the workings of a mind teribly in earnest and almost oppressed with the rastness of the importance of the questions ith which it is called upon to deal, with the problems it is required to solve, and of the relity, consequently, which must be in-

The spirit of the Mossage is admirable, its so generally disposed to return to their ailegi ctyle frank, straightforward, impassioned. The author goes directly to his theme, and though ance, to accept the propositions of the Govern-ment. The people, all the people, should be searlly compelled to be brief, yet the perspiculty of his ideas and the terseness of his are such, that, if he does not exhaust, he makes clear to every reader the topics he

The President dwells in an atmosphere of pure reason. He diemisees all passion as ntterly unworthy of the great occasion, and yet it is may to perceive how ardent, intense even, are his feelings, but how perfectly he controls them. This first message of Andrew Johnson to the Congress of the United States will place him upon a higher pedestal than he has ever coupled before the country and the world. He takes for the lamp of his feet the light that shines from the Constitution; and he has made a great effort to imbue his mind thoroughly with the spirit and the counsels of Washington and Jefferson, of Jackson and Madison, and the other great fathers and sub-lime Bluetrators of our institutions. Instead of being intoxicated with power, the President set shrinks from its exercise, and is desirons of wielding only just so much as is absotely essential to the restoration, within the shortest practical period, of the Union to all of is pristine authority and glory, and the States lately in revolt to their normal condition as coust members of the great brotherhood of

He takes the ground occupied by ever really great man from the adoption of the Constitution to the present day-with perhaps solitary exception—that secession is not a constitutional right, that such an assumption is foreign, in fact and design, to that great instrunt of our salvation, and that its preservation is the life at once of the Republic, as such, and of the liberties and perpetuity of the States: that the destruction of the Constitution would be, in the language of its greatest expounder like burling the sun from the solar system. ness and blackness of a starless and morninghere pight. Hence he has endeavored to walk firmly and cautiously by the side of the Constitution, and to square his actions as nearly as ible, in the trying situation in which he was placed, by he teachings

He points out how disastrons, when resistan to armed opposition to the Government had been overcome, would have been the attempt to disregard the plain principles of the Constitation and the genius of all our institutions, to hold the States lately in revolt as conquered vinces, through the agency of viceroys and military satraps, without reference to the steps necessary to reclothe those Common the with civil authority within the least pe riod of time compatible with the public safety and the interests of the country. Regarding the Southern States as

Union and the people, npon taking oath of allegiance to the Government, to be competent to elect conventions and Legislatures, he invited them, in the interests of peace and a restored patriotism, to resume their functions as citizens, and the said States to ratify the Amendment to the Constitution prohibiting slavery throughout the United States as a pledge and safeguard of future harmony and perpetual Union. This done, he leaves to both Houses of Congress, where the Constitution leaves it, the business of judg-into an awful commotion. A distinguished ing "of the elections, the returns, and the Major-General, a veteran of the European es" of their own members. The ines of the mersage are equally removed | and, to the number of one hundred and fifty, from the centripetal and centrifugal schools of politicians; from that revolutionary idea which would obliterate the powers and rights of the States, and make of our Government a grand centralized system which our fathers ever founded and never meant to found; and from that other revolutionary notion which divests the General Government of all power, and makes the Union a mere rope of sand, which invests each separate State with omnip otence, and treats the Constitution as a thing to be broken or disregarded, as something or nothing, according to the fitful caprice of the hour, for the time being. The States therefore are left to regulate all matters, including of course the qualifications of electors, which the tion has remitted to them. We do not expect that the revolutionary Jacobins of the will indorse this part of the message, but we do expect that ninety-nine hundredths of the American people will, and will applaud the author of it for the position he has taken gemery (Ala.) Advertiser the advertisement o The reference of the message to the freedmen 'Dillard, McMinn, & Co.'s Wnite Labor Agenis kindly and exlightened, free from dogmatism and acrimony, and is pervaded by a strong vein of common sense.

The language of Mr. Johnson in regard to cur public debt, the finances, and enrrency of the country is such as might have been ex "It is our first duty," he says, "to prepare in earnest for our recovering from the ever increasing evile of an irredeemable currency, without a sudden revulsion, and yet without untimely procrastination," which will meet with a hearty response from every intelligent patriot in the country. Our circulating medium eds, we are informed, "seven hundred millions," to which the Executive appends the pregnant comment, "the simple statement of the fact recommends more strongly than any words of mine could do the necessity of our re. straining this expansion." The idea that a pub-lic debt is a public blessing is properly scouted; in the South can get white labor upon such lic debt is a public blessing is property scource, and our national debt regarded as it ought to be—a heavy burden, but which the industry of lucky agencies. But any able-bodied white men, who, with the whole continent before the state of the liberty of going where they The positions of the President in reference to our relations with Great Britain, and the maint nance of our traditional policy of latting fore g 1 nations alone, and of being let alone by them, are taken with calmness and dignity, and will be generally acceptable, we think, to the people and justice, and to moral rather than physical power as arbitrators in our favor.

And finally, the President closes his explicit, frank, and compact message with an eloquent and fervid calogium upon our system of governmet, and the blessings it has conferred upon in the name of everything that is reasonable, are us as a people. His percration is inspiring and graphic, and, with the entire production, is evabout? What do you pretend to oppose them for if you indorse their doctrine of secession?

Congress is in session. There is much in ion to interest the country and the civilized world. The future of our mighty ublic depends in a great measure npon what the National Legislature may do this winter. That body can work vast good or incalculable evil, and undoubtedly it will. Acfaction and sectionalism, or of a broad and all-embracing patriotism, it will bring mischief d extended ruin for a time upon the country, promote its permanent peace and welfare. We know not when we shall receive the

NEW PULLDINGS IN THE CITY.-One of the most ex'ensive and important structures in the city is that of the Louisville Furniture Manniacturing Company, occupying the square on Minth street, between Green and Jefferson. We have strolled through this building, and found it constructed upon the very best principles of has a front on Jefferson street of one hundred and five feet, running along Ninth to Green street two hundred and eleven feet, and is four stories in height. This factory will contribute much to the good appearance of the vicinity in which it is located. The above company, of which James W. Stokes, Esq., is president, com prises some of the best and most energetic of our citizens. The charter under which they are acting was granted on the 23d of May last. Since that date, the requisite stock has been taker, the company organized, building erected and supplied with machinery of the best make, and of the latest and most improved patterns, showing an expedition and public spirit worthy of the highest praise. The factory will com-mence running on Monday next, the 11th inst. From one hundred and fifty to three hundred men will be employed in the various departments. The company have been very fortundic in securing a large amount of dry lumber, and will, we are assured, turn out as good work and sell it as ow as any manufactory in the West. The opening of this factory is the beginning of a new ers in our furniture trade, and will add material y to the prosperity of the city. This, together with other factories already in operation, will be able to supply dealers who have beretofore passed through Louisville and purchased at other points, not only furniture, but many other classes of goods. We understand the factory will have facilities for manufacturing $200,000 or $250,000 worth of furniture annu-The managers of this concern deserve great credit for the enterprise, industry, and good judgment they have displayed in rearing in our midst such an auxiliary to the city's growth and self-reliance. We have no doubt of their perfect success. At another time it will he our t easure to refer more particularly to this monument of home progress.

THE COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY AGAINST General John M. Palmer.—This important suit came before the Circuit Court yesterday. General Palmer was presented on three indictments, each of which was for enticing slaves to leave their owners. To each indictment the defense entered a demurrer that the substance of the in intments did not amount to an offense against the criminal laws. General Palmer opened his own case by a brief, fair, and eloquent e atement. He affirmed that he was a law-abiding man, neither above nor below the law; that he desired to see the laws of the Commonwealth enforced, and accordingly he surto be tried as the law directs. He stated that ders of his superiors, and not with a view to violate the statutes of Kentucky. General Palmer's deportment and manner, as well as the remarks he made, pleased every one. None left the Court house without feelings of admiration for the General. He was represented by General W. T. Ward and his son Colonel Ward. whose arguments on the demurrer were able and elegant. The speech of General Ward was remarkable for its force and eloquence We never heard an abler effort at the bar. The peculiarity of the case afforded material for just such a speech. The motion by defendant to dismiss the indictments for want of jurisdiction was heard and submitted. The final result of the case is

The place of holding the session of these courts has been changed from No 20 Main street to the office of Colonei Covic thut street, between Second and Tuird. We are glad to know that the former industr one and gentlemanly clerk Mr. Eiwin Taom son is retained in his position. On Taesday the following cases were called and disposed of: Alfred Monthalent, company D, 2d United States infantry, desertion; James Bagian, com pary C, 4th veteran volunteers, drunkenness; John Re ghly, company G, 2d United States in fantry, conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline: Frank E. Barrett, company G, 2d United States infantry, absence without leave; George S. Hardenbrook, Captain com peny F, 12th United States heavy artiller (colored) conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman. The court martial was in session sterday, but, without doing any husiness, is adjourned until Friday morning next. The of James Harvey We is, alias William Henry, who, at the time of his capture, wa uproced to be a brother of one-armed Rerry, is set for trial on Monday next, Dec. 11th. We are glad to know that our Presbyt rian friends are wide awake in the good work of furn bing material aid to the families of destitute pasters of that denomination in the we referred a few days ago in our epiumas has been peri cted, and is now in successful operation. All the Presbyterian Churches of the city are united in this glorious work, and they have resolved to have an old fashioned nulon meeting on this (Thursday) night at the Second Presbyterian Church, on Third street, which all are invited to attend. We deem this a most appropriate way of closing up our National give thanks to God for the unnumbered blessings voncheafed to us as a State and a Nation, it is eminently proper at the same time that we should not be unmindful of those who are in a suffering condition. We hope that the efforts put forth by our Episcopal and Presbyterian friends will be crowned with abundant snows. and that it will stimulate all other denomina tions of Christianity to imitate their noble example We carnestly hope that the meeting at the Second Presbyterian Church to-night will be largely attended, and a spirit of genuine liberality manifested to the end that substantial relief may be afforded the distressed.

THE CITY .- Notwithstanding the wind and rain, the outdoor business of the city is livelier than we have known it to be for several months Our merchants are driving ahead with marvelous energy. They seem to be controlled by a renewed and stronger momentum. Every de ment of trade is looking up. Go where we may through the business parts of the city, activity prevails. The sidewalks are crowded with cases, packages, and barrels of goods, During business hours, it is a difficult matter to force a passage through these heaps of me chandise. But no one blessed with a grain of rationality thinks of raving at the inconve It is a demonstration of our commercial properity and power. We can see at once tha this great impetus is mainly due to the unity of interests brought about by the meetings on 'Change. Nearly all of our principal merchants have identified themselves with the Board of Trade. They are as a great house which should not be divided against itself. We hope to see an increase of interest in their daily assemblings. While these meetings tend to enlarge and regulate the business of the city, they also home and abroad, which one and all should strive to maintain.

Personal.-We had the great pleas eeting, last night, our old and true friend, Colonel W. Matt. Brown, Mayor of Nashville. He still deserves the reputation, which he has always erjoyed, of being one of the politest and staunchest men of the city which he now governs with so much efficiency. Col. Brown is He is accompanied by Martin W. Cotton, Esq. | by Officer Marts, as a suspected felon.

WOOD'S THEATER-THE KEAN'S IN HAMLET could not have been more fully evidenced than It was last night. One of the largest andiences of the present season gathered within the waite of Wood's Theater. The weather was wretchedly inclement, and no one expected such a turn-out of the people, even to witness Hamof Shakespeare. The play was very well received. Mr. Kean's Hamlet was a good piece of acting. The interview with the Opeen was the distinctive feature of the performance. We never saw it better rendered. But the delinea tion was not faultless throughout. In the low cope at all favorably with Mr. Murdoch, or Mr. Edwin Booth, or Mr. J. B. Roberts. Yet in avowing this we have no wish to depreciate the abilitles of Mr. Kean. To rank beneath either of the actors named, in this particular role, is not discreditable to bim. In certain parts of the text his reading and acting exec': but in onceres of conception he falls, compared with the artistes we have mentioned, and some oth ers. Mrs. Kean conceives and acts the part of Queen Ge:trude very truthfully, but she does I of please so well in this as in Portia or Lady Mac beth. Miss Chapman rendered the character of

THE CONCERT OF THE BESTHOVEN CLUB -We stated in last Sunday's Journal that the club in tended to give a concert for the benefit of th evening, in the small hall of the Masonic Tem pie, while in several of the churches it was anorneed that the concert was to take place a the Court house Hall. This misunderstanding was occasioned by the apprehension of some the members of the cinh that the Masonle Temple was not entirely safe. Any fears upon this point have been entirely removed; for since the erection of the pillars our prominent architects upon cateful examination, have pronounced the hall beyond suspicion of danger. The ciub thereupon concluded to give the entertainment on Monday evening next, Dec. 11, at the large call of the Masonie Temple. We refer ou leaders to the advertisement in another cel

REPORT FROM SALECT O

FRANKFORT, Dec. 6, 1965.

i)anville Gazetle of Tuesday, the buildings be longing to the "Springs" at Harrodsburg, the property of the Government, were discovered to be on fire, and all were consumed, except one iarge room known as the dining-room, and several small cottages. We have no means of estimating the loss, which must be considerabl All agree that the fire was the work of an in cendiary, but divers opinions prevail as to the metives actuating the deed. It is most generally believed, however, that some persons wh had friends confined in the county jail fired the thildings, with the expectation of securing their escape in the confusion.

The Mason & Hamlin Cambert Organs —
Those who are at all conversant with musical matters must have heard of the Mason & Himlin Cabinet Organs, which may be said to have achieved celebrity in a short time, commanding attention in foreign countries as well at home. These maskers had noted carefully the imperfections at d the need of the reed instruments, and directed all their practical experience, and the knowledge derived from an extended series of experiments, to the correction of such imperfections, and to the supplying of these manifest meds. Their experiments on the single fections, and to the supplying of these manifest needs. Their experiments on the single point of the reach shave resulted in the production of a quality of tone which assimilates so closely to the pipe organ quality that it is difficult to distinguish between the two. This is a most important development of the read instrument, as it obviates the popular objection to the former ready, thin, nasal quality of instruments as it obviates the reputate of this class, and adapts it in a remarkable degree to the services of the church and to vecal accompaniments and music at home. The Cabinet Organs are in point of fact most beautiful instruments: their tons is rich, purs, and full, and their mechanical arrangements are ample, and calculated to afford every assistance to the performer, while adding to this scope and power of the most charming instrument of modern time. They are made in every style of case, from the simplest to the most claborate in design and finish, and at prices varving in accordance with the style — New York Tribune.

The lactory of Dr. Buil is a most complete one, and glws constant and lucrative employment to thirty hands, thus supporting at least one hundred and twenty persons. The Doctor not only manufactures his sarsaparilla, but also Cedron Bitters, Worm Destroyer, and the wellestablished Smith's Tonic, a reliable and angenere for fever and ague where all other remedits fail. The Doctor is overrun with orders from all parts of the country, and, since the reopening of the Southern trade his business has amounted to between $50,000 and $50,000 per month. In order that our readers may form some idea of the extent of his husiness, we would state that he constantly pays into the United States Treasury over $1,000 per week for internal revenue stamps. The Doctor not only does a great deal to bring business to our city, but he, by the sale of his most excellent druge, for they are unthing else, dispenses relief to the suffering throughout the country.

The rich and the great sit down to dias.
And they quali to each other in sparkline win
From the classes of crystal and areas:
But I mean in their golden p-tations they miss
The warmth of regard to be found in this—
We have drank from the same canteen; We have shared our blanket and tent topother,
And have marched and tentte in all kinds of weathe
And baugy and fell we have been;
Find days of heatic and days of rest:
But this memory I clime to and love the best—
We have drunk from the same canteen;

For whom, wounded, I lay on the outer slope,
With my blood flowing fast, and but little hope.
Upon which my faint spirit nould lean:
Oh, then, I remember, you crawled to my side,
And, bleedfun so fast it extended to mise they died,
We drank from the same canteen!

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTSCRY, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT. The war that ensangulated our fields with the blood of brothers and pierced the bosoms of our homes with the anguish of grief, is o'erpast; and peace—'gentle peace"—'hath spread her balmy wings" o'er all our beloved land, We this day rejoice in peace returned, the Union preserved, and the Government restored.

A kind Providence has added the blessing of abundant harvests. We may well say, "Thou crownest the year with Thy goodness; and Thy paths drop fatness."

"The passures are clothed with flocks, the valleys are covered with corn; they shout for joy;

they also sing." THURSDAY, THE 7TH DAY OF DECEMBER NEXT tes been set apart, by proclamation of the President of the United States, as a day of National Thankegiving. Let all the citizens of Kentucky unite in keeping and observing the day accordingly. "Lift up your hands in the Sanctuary and bless the Lord."

Given under my hand and the seal of State, at the Executive Office, In Frankfort, November 7th 1865. THOS. E. BRAMLETTE, GOV'T. By the Governor-E. L. VARWINKLE, , s.10dtdec7. Secretary of State.

During the last week of October M. Vic. tor Hugo, the French poet, and author of Les Miserables, gave to the public a new book of poetry. The book was published in Brussels, and the first edition was entirely sold in two days. A few extracts have appeared in differ ent French papers, and an American and eplendid edition is now being gotten up at the ice of the "Messager Franco-Americal," in New York. The title of this new publication "Songe of the Streets and Woods," all pieces of poetry of no great length, after the style of 'Orientales," of the same author. As usual, M. Victor Hugo abounds in contrasts and antitheecs, and these sometimes are, it must be confessed, very striking. Whatever the author sees or thinks of, he is immediately reminded of its opposite, and he knows how to bring it forward to the reader's eye in the boldest features. Senior est Junior, that is to say that the oldest is the youngest, the imagination of the post roams through past ages up to the present day, comparing the ancients to the moderns, not in their philosophy or literature, or politics, or warlike topics so familiar to the reader, and which have seen, and, no doubt, will be again, so much discussed without arriving at any satisfactory con-clusion. His subject is love, and his composition may be considered as a modern, polite, and subdued edition of the celebrated satire of luvenal against women—the women of large cities and capitals.

London and Paris, the modern Romes of Europe, inspire his muse with melancholy strains, as he finds that between the fact woman of our days and the first woman of ancient days, there is, morally, as much difference as there is between the crinoline and the leaf cked from the fig tree. Our modern Capid almost drunk, blind-folded he sits at a good whilst the ancient Cupid was a waterdrinker. Then he surveys the past The Bible. says he, blesses the water of the wide and round well: the ancients could not conceive of woman except with a jar of water on her head. Agar comes back from the spring, and Sephora from the torrent, not singing foolish songs, but with a chaste brow and demure eye The cistern in which God throws the reflection Riebrew marriage. O beautiful days! Cantic of cantics! how young were those ancients!

As it will be seen from these points, taken out of the author's lines currente calame, the the author with feelings of admiration. He cannot dismiss the subject without a sad and kind farewell. "Peace and a smile to those quiet times when the nurses showed their treests! We are far from those amphoras whose handles were a pair of white arms; far from those hearts, fresh as the morning's dawn, which were slowly drawn toward each other. With us to love has grown old inshioned; we live in a golden age of another kind Rosine weighs Barthole's and counts Lindor's gold. Less wise, we are more knowing; our loves are like a forest, in which, in the background as a finishing touch of the landscape, appears the Bank of France." of the love of Queen Raedope for Amos, whom she visits in his grotto; of Amestris, of Thebes, driving her chariot to the poor dwelling of Nor le Greece forgotten, and Caramnes, and Theis. In these days, however, the course of love does not run so smooth as in those times of frugal food and clear water. Our belies have made some light alterations in that programme of olden times. The King of Bava-ris himself will not be admitted at Dona Carmen's, unless he brings in each hand a stream (of diamords) of the finest water. This, it is casy to find out, is an allusion to the intrigue of the King of Bavaria with the celebrated Lola outez, some years ago. Continuing the sketch of the modern Galateas, he shows them to us locking up, of an evening, gold dollar pieces in their safe, and this congenial, metalic occupation causes them a more tender emption than a meeting under the starry sky when a voice whispers, "is that you?" Nothing will warm up a cold heart better than a pile of cold which increases in the same proportion as pulor decreaces. Our shepherdeeces shear more hankers than obeep. While singing Schubert and Weber the modern Phyllyre has made the discovery of the application of algebra to love, soul, and kiss. When Daphnis presents his cheek, Chloe presents her tariff; Lise, with her head softly inclined, Palmyra in tears, Pasisthes in ecstacy, all fall in love by A plus B. With open bands, in their dreams, they see foliages of bank-notes in the wind. Those cap-tivating and terrible monsters do not say Al-ways, but Encor! and their sift in which we throw our hearts as well as our gold, shuts out our heart; but our gold goes through, Danaid fachion. Alse: why is, oh! unfathomable God! New Wholesale there young beauties who, it seems, were better intended to make the woods harmonious with their songs!"

DRY GOODS HOUSE The post here gives up in despair; he leaves his topic to make a return upon himself. Pow-eriess against evil, he remains strong in his at-TAPP, KENNEDY, & WALSH, tachment to a purer state of the heart and mind, and, essing that the mountain will not walk to him, he resolves upon walking to the
